

Table of Contents

|   |    |
|---|----|
| David MeghnagiEditorial  | 2  |
| David MeghnagiThe word to tell. Trauma and writing in Primo Levi's work  | 3  |
| Aglaia Bianchi«Meditate that this came about».The dialogue, a way to a public reflection on the Shoah   | 19 |
| Elisa GuidaTo write is bread. The function of writing for Edith Bruck  | 25 |
| Lia LeviIf you have never told your children.The experiences of a Jewish child caught between Fascism and Nazism  | 32 |
| Pier Francesco GalliPsychiatric training: a first chapter.Giovanna Gallio holds a conversation-interview with Pier Francesco Galli(From: Psicoterapia e Scienze Umane , 2008, XLII, 1: 89-106) | 36 |